HOME FRONT CAN DO MOST, IS CHALLENGE

Sutton, Georgina and North Gwillimbury residents packed the aisles of the Simcoe theatre, Sutton, on Monday evening to see government-sponsored war pictures and to hear a Victory loan message from Rev. Henry Cotton, Newmarket.

M. O. Tremayne, Sutton, acted as chairman, and introduced Mr. Cotton, an airman during the Great War and an air force padre during this war before coming to Newmarket.

"I am thinking particularly tonight of Canadian boys not only enduring the hardships of German prison camps, which I know from experience are pretty tough before parcels begin to arrive, but I can picture them in their shackles," said Mr. Cotton.

"It was tough enough without the shackles," he commented. Producing a "speiseplan," or German prison camp menu, Mr. Cotton said: "With their shackles on this is what they will have to eat, or rather drink, for it is nearly all soup. Every three days they get a piece of bread. They get ersatz coffee made out of roasted horse-chestnuts and acorns every morning for breakfast, with no eggs, no bacon, no milk, no sugar, no bread, no butter."

"At noon they get a thin vegetable soup. At night they get an even more thin porridge. These men in shackles and on starvation rations are there not only in defence of their freedom but in defence of ours."

"Our part in the terrific life and death struggle is the least important. Four horses can do a much better job than three in pulling a two-furrow plow. The army, we know what they are doing in Egypt, the navy, we ought to go thank God every night on our knees for the navy and merchant marine, and the air force, we know what Mr. Churchill said of the R.A.F., are the first three horses. The fourth horse, and perhaps the most important, is the home front."

"Even Hitler concedes that the Germans in the main lost the last war on the home front and it is true that German morale completely collapsed first of all on the home front. Goering says that this time the Germans will be fed even if other occupied territories go without."

"It is of fundamental importance that we on the home front supply the sinews of war, for no matter how courageous our men in the army, navy and air force may be, unless we, with our money and with our toil, supply the guns, bombs, planes, tanks and ships, our men will fight in vain."

"Choose your bonds, live in freedom under the British flag, not in shackles under German rule. We'll never let the old flag fall."

Those Whistles Are Raid Alarms—Don't Phone

(By Rudy Renzi, press secretary of Newmarket C.D.C.) Our men in the local C.D.C. are experimenting with a signal system to be used in case of air raid. Tuesday night at 7 p.m., the whistles at the Office Specialty and Davis leather were in action for three minutes each and the effects are being studied by the wardens and postmen.

On Tuesday, Nov. 10, there will be a meeting of all wardens and postmen in the town hall. At this meeting Lieut. Jack Payne and Sergt. White will speak on gas-bombs. Both have long and varied experience with bombs and have been overseas and seen action. We don't hear much about gas-bombs, because they are usually much smaller than demolition bombs and their effect on structure is much less. Usually the gases from these bombs are heavier than air and would make basements particularly dangerous. The lower the story the greater danger from gas, unless the ventilation system is such as to enable building up pressure inside the building, when it is possible to prevent infiltration of gas. The fresh air intakes, in such cases, should not be less than 20 feet above the ground.

The general public is invited to this meeting. To get back to the air raid signals: The public has been asked not to use their telephones after an alarm, as all lines have to be kept clear for emergency calls, etc.

BUY BONDS, IS MORAL

When Orson Welles (left) presented "Nazi Eyes on Canada" on Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. McCann, Newmarket, were especially interested. The play began in the village of Alameda, Sask., where Mrs. McCann was born, and where she and her husband, a native of Newmarket, lived for some years. The town clerk and former church organist, Harry Truscott, who was a prominent character in the play, played the organ for Mr. and Mrs. McCann's wedding. Sam Dornan (right) is editor of the Alameda Dispatch, which Mrs. McCann reads faithfully every week, and came all the way from Alameda to Toronto to "play himself" in the radio drama.

PARENTS SAY HEALTH NURSE IS NECESSITY

"Some months ago a committee was nominated by the Home and School Association to work for the establishment of a public health nursing system for Newmarket and at the first meeting it was decided to feel out the various service clubs," Mrs. W. H. Bell reported to a Home and School meeting at the Stuart Scott school on Tuesday evening.

"Letters were written to them and they unanimously endorsed the idea," said Mrs. Bell. "The clubs contacted were the Lions, Cherokee, Women's Institute and Catholic Women's League. We then wrote to the town council, who invited our committee to meet them at their next meeting. Feeling that a more representative group would be better, members of the various service clubs, Mr. McHale, representing the separate school board, and Mr. Jackson and Mr. Bastedo, representing the teaching staff of the public and high schools, met the council."

"A general discussion followed and the council seemed very interested. They asked us to procure some information with regard to other towns in Ontario with similar populations and recommended the matter to the board of health for study with regard to the needs of Newmarket. Before the information asked for could be received from the provincial department of health, within the week the board of health called a meeting and decided this wasn't for them to decide and that a plebiscite should be held at the next municipal election."

"Our club and the various other clubs wrote letters of protest to the council, who in turn asked the board of health to reconsider their decision. Since that time, nothing has been heard from the board of health."

"We feel that since it is so evident that a definite need exists, the town need not have been put to the expense and delay of a vote of the people, particularly when by-laws involving as much or more money have been passed without a referendum."

"We can't help but comment in passing that many residents who take the attitude that they managed to grow up without the help of a public health nurse are still conscious that the world has progressed in many other directions. Let us not keep health in the horse and buggy era."

Punish Parents, Is Delinquency Suggestion

"If there were more Christians in the world, the world would not be in such a state," Dr. H. J. Pritchard, Sutton, chairman, said at the opening of yesterday's Christian Education Advance convention in St. Paul's Anglican church hall.

"The church reaching and teaching every person," was the day's theme.

"Why shouldn't we conduct God's business on the same basis that we conduct our own business?" asked Dr. Pritchard.

"It is a great thing to get together and pool our ideas," said Rev. Norman McLeod, Toronto, head of the Religious Education Council of Canada. "Across the line there are 30 Christian bodies working together."

"Sunday-school enrolments are 40 percent of public school enrolments," Dr. Geo. A. Little, D.D., Toronto, said.

The number of people who have no church connection is a "terrific condition and has to be remedied," Rev. Alex. Stein, Newmarket, said.

"The children are our hope for the future," said Mr. Stein, advocating religious education in home, school and church.

In his evening address, in discussing juvenile delinquency, Dr. Little said: "Those boys in juvenile court were just as ready to do right as wrong. The people to be punished are the parents, teachers, preachers, who did not provide better for youth."

Children Asked To Do Hallowe'en Patriotically

There will be no Hallowe'en entertainment provided by the Lions club this year for the children of Newmarket.

After consideration by the club it was felt that the money should be spent for actual welfare work among either Newmarket and district children or the children of Britain.

A leading citizen has asked The Era and Express to suggest to parents that this year they should ask the children to refrain from door-to-door solicitation and that citizens put any money that they would give away on Hallowe'en into war charities.

There has been no Hallowe'en destruction in Newmarket for several years, and it is hoped that it will not be resumed just because there is no children's party this year.

North York Is Down To 59th Position In "Victory" Campaign

Marsh Growers Are Ready to Put $100 Thousand Into Loan, Agree To Lend Large Part Of Their Crop

With $462,000 in sales out of a $1,600,000 objective, as of Tuesday night, North York was not doing as well as usual in the Victory loan.

The above sales do not include the special names canvass, and the $1,600,000 is just the general canvass objective. So that the rank and file Victory bond buyers have still a long way to go.

North York is about $120,000 behind where it stood at the end of the same number of days in the last Victory loan, and is not doing as well so far as in either of the two previous loans.

In the first loan North York was leading at times the province of Ontario and finished in second position. In the next loan North York was always well up.

In this loan up to Monday night North York was in 59th position out of 61 districts.

"Canvassers find that the public do not seem to realize the advantages of the loan as an investment," Victory loan headquarters, Newmarket, stated on Wednesday. "Another tendency is to think that the rest of the country will do the job and that there is no need for us to worry. We can't do the job without the assistance of everyone, particularly the many individuals who can invest $50, $100 and $200, with a little planning and sacrifice."

North York will get a nice hand up from the Holland Marsh vegetable growers if a pending agreement goes through for the purchase by the dominion government of $100,000 worth of vegetables for use in military camps.

The Holland Marsh growers, with a crop valued at $250,000, are ready to put $100,000 into Victory bonds if the government will take that value in vegetables.

"Minding My Own Business When Bingo!" Writes Pilot

BILL CANE TELLS HOW HE GOT DAMAGED PLANE BACK TO BRITAIN

Following is an extract from a letter written by Flight-Sgt. Wm. F. E. Cane, who was injured at Dieppe. He is a former Newmarket boy, son of Sheriff and Mrs. W. H. S. Cane, Toronto.

To begin with, the squadron was on patrol over Dieppe along with other English squadrons and some of the Luftwaffe. We were all milling around trying to find a nice juicy German to shoot at. As usual I was stooging along at the rear of the squadron keeping a crafty eye open for a "sitter." This went on for some time. I saw lots of 190's (Focke-Wulf) but they were never within range.

I was minding my own business when bingo! I heard an awful bang in my left wing and simultaneously lost all feeling from the waist down. I tried my radio but it was dead. I looked at my wing and saw a hole one and a half feet to two feet in diameter, right in the middle. I decided then that I was a gone gosling, so prepared to bale out.

Before I could jettison the hood, the feeling came back in my legs. I changed my mind and, checking my engine instruments, found everything running fine. I knew I was hit and thought I might be bleeding internally, so knew I had to get home in a hurry. I turned and made for England, hell-bent for election. I felt rotten, so turned oxygen on full. This, I think, is what got me home. I was getting weak but by bracing my arms on my knee and holding stick with both hands kept plane on an even keel. I could not look around to see if there was anything on my tail because of my back. I just trusted to luck.

I suppose it took about 15 or 20 minutes to reach land. I did not know where I was, so followed the coast (with an anxious eye on my gas gauge) until I found an aerodrome. I sat down and swung off the runway. I switched off and waited for someone to come and drag me out. The M.O. gave me a shot in the arm and sent me to hospital. I remained there over night and then came home.

That's the story in detail, but I hope you won't find it boring. Needless to say, I think God did more to help me than I could do myself. I confess the censor will think it's a helluva line and I must admit I intend it should be. After all, a fellow doesn't get a hunk of shrapnel in him every day (I hope).

Let me here say that I was not in pain nor have I been since.

Victory Column Shows What Bond Sales Buy

"This is what your money buys," Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales told a Main St. crowd on Saturday afternoon.

Lined up on the street were jeeps, universal carriers, armored cars and other armored vehicles.

An R.C.A.F. squad gave a demonstration of precision drill. The drill was carried out without spoken command other than a quiet rhythm of numbers from which the fliers took their cue.

To most spectators, however, it seemed that the squad with their rifles and bayonets went through the entire program without a single command. The drill, as befits soldiers of the clouds, was different, more artistic than military, and more what would be seen on a stage than on an infantry parade grounds.

The demonstration began ahead of time and was nearly finished by the scheduled 5 p.m. starting time.

Mayor Dales thanked the visitors, and asked for the purchase of Victory bonds.

Lack Of Health Nurse Is Expensive, States Writer

LACK OF HEALTH EDUCATION SAID TO HAVE PROVED COSTLY TO THE ARMY

(Contributed) "Procrastination means death," says Winston Churchill. Mr. Churchill was concerned with speeding up war production. The question arises: What clogs war machinery? Efficiency experts whose job it is to find out what that absenteeism through illness is the greatest clog.

Generally speaking, illness results when health laws are broken and health laws are broken because of ignorance of those laws. A century or more ago people believed that death came when God called and nothing could or should be done. Then came advances in medical science and dreaded plagues such as smallpox were almost wiped out. An astonishing decrease was seen in infant mortality while adults became safer insurance risks. All was well. With closed eyes people failed to recognize the dangerous disease, complacency.

War came. We opened our eyes to face facts. We were not and are not a healthy nation. Not only is war work slowed down because of illness but soldier training suffers in the same way. Training is held up and repeated at great cost, largely because of a lack of health education in the school years. Health habits cannot be formed in a month or a year.

Taxpayers pay for schools. Do returns justify the investment? Because of the money invested the schools are expected to develop a generation with keen, healthy minds and healthy bodies. In many cases, including Newmarket, the services of a qualified health instructor were overlooked and so many children through defective sight, hearing, teeth, tonsils or defective mental attitudes are not physically or mentally capable of absorbing education. A few years later the taxpayer may again be called upon to support them in hospitals and in jails. To make the school investment pay larger dividends, there must be constant checking of physical and mental weaknesses and remedial measures secured. Health edu-

VISITS BRITAIN

Managing director of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, C. V. Charters, Brampton, has just returned from a government-sponsored press trip to Britain by bomber plane. Mr. Charters and the "bomber press" interviewed General MacNaughton, spent a night in an R.A.F. station, waiting until dawn for the bombers to return, and among other interesting things visited his own two sons in the forces. One of them is a Pickering College old boy. Mr. Charters will speak at the Newmarket Lions club on Monday, Nov. 9. The above sketch is not by "Mr. Punch" but was made by a Windsor Star cartoonist some years ago and was found in The Era and Express files.

Throughout both armed and civilian ranks of a democracy a healthy mind in a healthy body is essential to progress in peace and to defence in war. Thrift means spending wisely. "Procrastination means death."

YOU'LL ENJOY SPENDING WHAT YOU SAVE NOW

The most successful salesmanship in the retail world is that which holds out some attractive and enjoyable return for money expended. A hair-do that will be the envy of one's friends, a suit that will make the girls stare, an insurance policy that will provide a pension for the evening of life (that will enable the purchaser to play golf while his wife has nothing to do but wash the dishes and knit to her heart's content)—these are the inducements that sell merchandise.

Fear too sometimes sells merchandise—the fear of "offending" and being a social outcast, the fear of disease, the fear of spending one's final years in poverty—but we rather think that hope and anticipation are better salesmen. So we will probably find ourselves buying more Victory bonds and more war savings certificates if we think in terms of what a nice world this can be after the Nazis are defeated than of what a horrible place it would be if the Nazis should win their long chance.

There is real reason for optimism about the post-war world. There is every reason to think that governments all over the world will work together to promote trade and prosperity instead of fighting each other with tariff walls. There is every reason to think that governments will be able to maintain fairly high employment after the war. While they cannot go on borrowing indefinitely, spending more than they collect in taxes, it is to be remembered that production will be not of armaments but of food, clothes, radios, plows and other useful goods.

There is every reason to invest confidently in victory, not with the thought that there will be dire need after the war of the money invested now, but with the thought that it will be more enjoyed in a more orderly post-war world. That is a reasonable expectation.

SPEECHLESS - - WELL, NEARLY

What shall we say? The truth is that Mr. Hepburn's departure from public life came so suddenly—in spite of the warnings he has given—that he has left most of us speechless. Our first feeling is that it must mean an improvement, but a blush of shame comes over us as we remember some of Mitch's endearing qualities. He has never been dull, he has never been timid, he has admitted mistakes, and, last but not least, he has spent money like water.

When it was new, Premier Hepburn's broom cleaned up some things around Queen's Park that did not seem quite right, it brought stricter control over municipal financing and put many a defaulting municipality on its feet, it gave Ontario compulsory milk pasteurization, it gave Ontario's schools a more modern approach to education (though we fear that much of the new vision was lost with Thornton Mustard, a victim of the Athenia sinking), and no doubt it temporarily checked the provincial spending spree.

The time has now come, however, when the broom is no longer new. The economists have outspent their predecessors. Mr. Hepburn himself has shown an inability to subordinate his personal dislikes to the public welfare. His refusal to sit down with the dominion and other provinces to study the Siros report was a great disservice to Ontario and Canada. His fostering of the idea that Ontario supports the rest of the dominion—when as a matter of fact industrial Ontario is the chief beneficiary from Canada's tariffs and the other provinces are her chief customers—has also been unfortunate.

His mantle now falls on the shoulders of the minister who was associated with him in the foolish "milk cow" talk. Mr. Conant, however, has many good qualities. He too has courage and he has been a vigorous attorney-general and law-enforcer. His stature may well increase with experience. He will have associated with him such truly public-spirited citizens as Dr. Duncan McArthur, minister of education, and P. M. Dewan, minister of agriculture. The non-medical minister of health, Harold Kirby, also has a good record.

Mr. Hepburn revealed in his last public act, the nomination of a successor as prime minister without consulting his cabinet colleagues, as he has often revealed before, his lack of appreciation of our democratic institutions and their origin. Mr. Hepburn told a labor gathering recently that he had read a book. Unfortunately, he hasn't read enough books. He has served in a high office under the handicap of a deficient education. He has neither the formal higher education of the university nor that better kind of education that comes from a lot of good reading. Mr. Hepburn, we venture to guess, has never read a history of the United Kingdom or of Canada since he left high school. He was possibly too busy and hard-working as a farmer, and too much out of the habit of study when he became a member of parliament.

In resigning and recommending his successor to the lieutenant-governor without consulting his colleagues, or his supporters in the house, he did nothing unlawful—there is no written law covering parliamentary practice—he did nothing clearly unconstitutional—nothing that actually breaks with any well-established parliamentary rule. He just didn't do the thing that appeals to parliamentarians and students of parliamentary government as the right thing.

While it is the function of a retiring prime minister to advise the crown whom to call upon to head a new ministry, the prime minister must recommend a person who can command a majority in the house. Usually there is only one such person. A prime minister whose party has been defeated at the polls recommends that the crown call upon the leader of the successful party. When the prime minister himself is retiring and his party is remaining in power, there is a little more leeway. There may be several persons who, once given the leadership, could command a majority in the house. Under such circumstances truly democratic advice to the crown will recognize that the ministry, and the prime minister, are not, as they once were, the ministers or servants of the crown, but the ministers or servants of the house (and the electors) and the right of choice should lie with the house. He should ascertain the members' choice by consultation with them or by consultation with his cabinet colleagues.

Moreover, a prime minister should not give at any time personal or irresponsible advice to the crown but advice which he knows, from consultation with his cabinet colleagues, will have the support of the majority in the house. He should give not his own advice to the crown, but the whole ministry's advice. In the present instance, the lieutenant-governor might properly have asked: "Have you consulted your colleagues?" and refused to act upon Mr. Hepburn's advice until Mr. Hepburn could say that he had consulted his fellow ministers and that his advice represented the will of the legislature.

Mr. Hepburn might have recommended Col. George Drew, who could have carried on until the legislature met or until a vote of the people. Mr. Conant has a much better chance of commanding a majority in the house, but the fact is that until the legislature meets Ontario will have as prime minister one who has not been endorsed by the house, or by a caucus of the majority, or been selected by a convention as leader of his party.

Mr. Conant's first big test is before him. Will he revert to democratic methods? Will he—he has not the excuse of ignorance of parliamentary tradition, for as a lawyer he should be steeped in it—do the parliamentary thing? Will he seek the will of the house in this most important matter, its leadership? Mere consultation now of a cabinet in which he holds the whip will not satisfy the needs of the situation. He should consult immediately—before using his office to strengthen his position—his fellow members of the majority party, and let them decide whether he is to retain the leadership, whether another should take it, or whether they want to make that choice with the advice and assistance of all members of their party in convention.

And then the legislature, which has extended its own term of office, should submit its choice to the people in the now unrepresented constituencies.

WHO KNOWS THIS STORY?

The Ontario Historical Society suggests that in giving old papers and books to the salvage gatherers people should be careful to save anything of historical value. Someone remarked the other day that Newmarket's town bell has some historical value. It is suggested that the town council could announce its intention to turn the bell, silent as a peak in Darien, into salvage channels unless someone brings forward details of historical value of the bell. Then, if the war effort were not helped, there would be at least an interesting story for this newspaper.

CIVILIAN HARDSHIPS

Many will join with us in our lament about the curtailment of beer and hard liquor. Beer production (use of malt) is to be limited after Nov. 1 to the amount produced in the corresponding three months of the previous year. The order states that, in view of a 15 to 20 percent increase in beer consumption in the past year, this will mean a "substantial curtailment of output." Unless there are sufficient stocks of beer on hand to carry over the bump, users of beer will suffer a hardship from Nov. 1 to Feb. 1, and they will not get back to their present rate of consumption until Aug. 1 to Nov. 1 of next year. What will happen to them after that is anybody's guess.

The lot of the users of spirits is to be even harder. They are to be allowed to buy only one bottle of liquor a day.

The worst may be yet to come. Perhaps there will be some order which will put users of beer and liquor under the same hardship as users of ice-cream and certain soft drinks have been. During the past summer Newmarket had two or three ice-creamless days a week. What hardships we civilians on the North American continent must endure!

Cigarettes From Home Cheer Boys Overseas

The Newmarket Boy Scouts Association has received a number of letters and cards of appreciation from Newmarket boys overseas for cigarettes which they have received. The Scouts sent the parcels by arrangement with the Newmarket Veterans' Association.

"Recently I had the pleasure of receiving a grand gift of cigarettes from your association and believe me they arrived at the opportune moment," writes Top. H. E. Cook. "It's not infrequently that I find myself without a smoke and it seems I'm usually lucky enough to get some just when I need them most."

"Well, lads, thanks to your grand work I'm smoking for a while yet, so I wish you long continued success at the swell job all are doing."

"Just a line to thank you and your boys for the carton of 300 cigarettes which I received yesterday," writes Bob M. Carnan. "I really appreciate them very much as I was down to my last package when yours came in."

"I really cheers a fellow up when he gets something like that from home, then you know that the folks at home are still thinking of you. I only hope that some day I'll be able to repay all that has been done for me."

"In closing I wish to thank you again a million times for the smokes and I hope that we'll all be together again soon."

A former Scoutmaster in Newmarket, P.O. Jack. Malcolm writes to thank the boys for a carton of cigarettes.

"I would sincerely appreciate it if you would express to the other members my sincere appreciation of their thoughtfulness," the letter states. "Since I have come over here I have begun to appreciate how many real friends I have at home."

Sgt. Ted Robinson also writes to thank the boys for a carton of cigarettes. "You fellows must be doing a lot of hard work to raise enough money to send all the town boys cigarettes," he says. "I am sure they all will appreciate them just as I do. You can be sure of that."

"How about some of you fellows writing me a few lines now and then and tell me just what you do in your club. I would like to hear about it. Cheerio fellows and all the best in whatever you do to help win this war."

"I received your gift parcel of cigarettes yesterday," writes Sgt. S. Bone, "and I will truthfully say that I was awfully pleased to get them. Cigarettes are one of the things that keep us going from day to day and I will say that if it wasn't for all you people at home we would go very short quite often. Things of that nature are very hard to get over here, as I am sure you realize."

Cards wishing the boys success in their work and expressing appreciation were received from Pte. Vern S. Clark, Gnr. John Harman, Gnr. Fred Cunningham, Bdr. Howard Brown, Cpl. Don. Lyall, Sgt. Milton G. Morton, LAC Mervyn Wainman, Cpl. A. V. Elphinstone, C. E. Bennison, and Spr. H. Moss.

POLICE COURT

City Man Gives Friend 'Shot' To Steal Chickens

"I am sentencing each of you to 60 days in prison," Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe told David Miller, 2nd concession, East Gwillimbury, and William Morden, 80 Cameron St., York township, in Newmarket police court last week.

The men were jointly charged with theft of six chickens, valued at $7.50, from George Wright, 3rd concession, East Gwillimbury, on Sept. 19. When asked how they would plead, the former said that he would plead guilty, Mr. Morden pleaded not guilty.

Called to the stand, 17-year-old Joseph Gross, 458 Silverthorne Ave., York township, told his worship that on Sept. 19 he had driven to Mr. Miller's home near Queensville with Mr. Morden, his wife, Betty, William Waltenberry and another passenger, and on the way they stopped at the Fairbank hotel on Dufferin St., where Mr. Morden, who had been driving, got out to purchase a carton of beer.

He said that on the way to Mr. Miller's he heard Mr. Morden say, "We are not going on this trip for nothing," and, "All we have to do is give Dave Miller a little beer and he'll get all the chickens you want."

Mr. Gross further testified that when they arrived at Mr. Miller's, either Mr. or Mrs. Morden gave him "a couple of shots of brandy" and that later, he, David Miller and William Morden went to Queensville, where they purchased some cartridges for the shotgun. On the way back they stopped at Wright's farm, where he and Miller got out and took the chickens.

"It was dark, I held the bag and Miller put the chickens in it," the witness stated.

"How many were put in the bag?" questioned Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C.

"I don't remember how many chickens we got," was the reply. "We took them to the car. Morden had stayed in the car. We went back to Miller's place. I was sick. I laid down in the shack. I don't remember anything until next morning. I don't know what happened to the chickens."

Questioned further by the crown as to whether Mr. Morden had gotten out of the car when he and Miller were stealing the chickens, Gross stated: "When he stopped the car, Mr. Morden said, 'No, I'll not get out of the car. I'll drive slowly and pick you up.'"

"You have had experience in police courts before?" cross-examined Mr. Saunders, counsel for Mr. Morden.

The witness admitted that he had been convicted before but denied that he was on probation at the present time.

Constable Joseph Jardine, East Gwillimbury, told his worship that at 8.15 p.m. on the night in question he had visited the Miller home, where he saw William Waltenberry, Miller and Morden were not there. The officer said that he later saw them and Joseph Gross at Queensville.

"Your worship, on Sept. 10, at about 10.30 p.m., accompanied by Constable Jardine, I went to the residence of Dave Miller to investigate a complaint," testified County Constable Ronald Watt.

"On arriving at the house, Dave Miller was not at home but a few minutes later I saw a car driving north on the second concession. I waited until the car arrived at Miller's house.

"While I couldn't distinguish them I saw two people get out of the car and go into the house. There was a light in the doorway. I saw the accused man, William Morden, in the house through the southeast window. I left my car to go to the rear door and I heard the back door shut. I saw a figure of a man and cigarette ashes flying. I heard the sound of feet as if they were running away."

"As I got to the back door, the door opened slightly and a chicken came out," continued the officer. "As I went in another chicken was walking around inside the house."

Constable Watt went on to say that in the house he found Miller, Gross, Betty Morden, Claude Perrin and Waltenberry, and that when he asked them if they knew where the chickens came from, they said they didn't know.

Asked by the crown if William Morden was in the house at the time, the officer said that he was not in the house, although shortly before he saw him through the window.

Questioned as to Joseph Gross' condition the officer stated: "He was stupid. His breath smelled as if he had been drinking."

Constable Watt further stated that on the day following he found two more chickens on Miller's place and still later another one.

"Did Miller know where the chickens came from?" asked the crown.

"He told me that they were taken from George Wright," replied Constable Watt.

Asked if he wished to give his side of the story, Mr. Morden, through his counsel, advised his worship that he would not enter the box.

In his defence Mr. Miller told his worship that he had been asleep at the time the Morden car drove up to his house.

"Bill Morden came in with two quarts of brandy," he stated. "Mrs. Morden came in with a case of beer, which had been opened. They gave me a shot of brandy. I didn't want to go and get the chickens. He said that he wanted them to take to Toronto to put with his own."

"Why did you go get them then?" asked the crown.

"We were drunk and I didn't know what I was doing," replied Mr. Miller.

"In this case I'm satisfied with the evidence of Constables Jardine and Watt," stated Magistrate Woodliffe. "I accept the evidence of Gross and believe that he told the truth about the theft of the chickens. There will be a conviction."

Here the crown proceeded to inform his worship as to the record of both men.

After hearing evidence in the charge "of giving liquor to infants," namely Joseph Gross and William Waltenberry, youths under 21 years of age, against William Morden and his wife, Betty Morden, Magistrate Woodliffe said that he would reserve judgment for two weeks. The defendants, who were jointly charged, pleaded not guilty.

William Waltenberry said that he was 15 years of age on July 8, and that he lived about a block away from the defendant's home. On the day in question he had accompanied him to Dave Miller's home. Mr. Morden purchased a case of beer at the Fairbank hotel, he said.

"On the way up, Joe wanted them to open the brandy but they wouldn't," he stated. "They decided to open the case of beer. Bill didn't want me to have any. Betty said, 'Go ahead.' I had three pints on the way up."

"What effect did it have on you?" asked the crown. "It made me dizzy," replied the witness. He further stated that he had paid Mr. Morden 15 cents for a bottle of beer before leaving their home.

According to Joseph Gross, who told his worship that he was 17 years old on Oct. 5, Mr. Morden, after purchasing the beer, placed it in the back of the car. "Someone said, 'Let's open it,'" he said. "All had some except me."

"Did you see Waltenberry drinking?" the crown asked Mr. Gross.

"Yes, it put him out of his senses," was the reply.

Asked if he himself had had some brandy, the witness said that Mr. or Mrs. Morden gave him about a half cup at Mr. Miller's place and that it had made him feel "good."

According to Constable Jardine, when he came to the Miller home at 8.15 p.m., he saw Waltenberry, who was under the influence of liquor.

"He was creating a disturbance, talked a lot and smelled of liquor," the officer stated.

Constable Watt testified that at 10.45 p.m., when he went to the Miller home, Waltenberry was lying on the bed asleep.

"His breath had a strong odor of liquor," he stated. "Joseph Gross was in a dazed and stupid condition." The officer further informed his worship that he found an empty beer carton and some bottles under the bed.

Finding them each guilty of having a gun in a locality where game is usually found, contrary to section 41 of the Game and Fisheries Act, Magistrate Woodliffe fined W. Hutchinson, 741 Bathurst St., Toronto, $15 and costs of $2.25 or ten days, and R. Cassidy, 244 Bolton Ave., Toronto, $10 and costs of $2.25 or ten days.

According to Percy Pattenden, 5th concession, Whitechurch, game warden, on Sunday, Oct. 11, he had gone down to the creek for a pail of water when he noticed two men get out of a car, each with a rifle.

"Is this a game preserve?" asked the crown. The witness replied that it was. He went on to say that he saw Mr. Cassidy discharge his gun once and Mr. Hutchinson twice. He said that the latter had gone into a bush and came out without the gun. When he asked him for it, he first said that he did not have any, but later went back into the bush and got it. When he asked Mr. Hutchinson for the gun, the latter refused to give it to him.

In his defence Mr. Cassidy pleaded that he had taken three pot-shots at crows and that Mr. Hutchinson had not fired his gun at all. He admitted dropping his gun into the weeds to hide it when he saw the warden.

In his defence Mr. Hutchinson denied having shot his gun and said that he left it in the bush when he heard the game warden talking to Mr. Cassidy "to avoid trouble." He said that he showed his gun to Mr. Pattenden later and pointed out that its barrel was clean. He denied cleaning it while in the bush.

His worship fined Roy E. Flewell, Uxbridge, $10 and costs or ten days on a charge of dangerous driving and ordered that his license to drive be suspended.

County Constable William Hill told his worship that on Aug. 28 at 12.15 a.m., he inspected an ornamental cedar hedge, which runs about 100 feet along Hedge Road in Georgina township, and found 67 feet of it was completely ruined.

The officer stated that there were car marks on the road for a distance of 52 feet to the hedge, the car had then straddled the hedge and gone for a distance of

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Starr entertained Rev. Mr. Waugh of the Temperance Federation on Sunday. He was the guest speaker at Pine Orchard Union church.

Finding an 18-year-old Manitoba youth guilty of illegal possession of liquor, on Oct. 10, when Constable Hill noticed him walking up the street in Pefferlaw with a bottle of beer in his hand and later with the bottle opened, "his worship fined him $10 and costs or ten days."

Ten dollars and costs of $7.50 or ten days was the fine Magistrate Woodliffe imposed on Arthur West, Holland Landing, when he found him guilty of a charge of careless driving on Oct. 3, when his car grazed that of Chief Stoss, which was parked in the market square behind the police station, in Newmarket, causing damage of $10 to the officer's car.

According to Constable James Stoss, at 8.30 p.m. on Oct. 3, he was sitting at his desk in the police station when he heard a loud crash and upon going out to investigate saw a 1938 car driving away towards Timothy St. He made a note of the license number, then followed it to Timothy St., where it backed into a parking place. When the driver saw him, he drove away. The officer said that he did not see the driver of the car.

On the "following Monday, Chief Stoss said that he and Constable Watt went to the defendant's home at Holland Landing, where Constable Watt examined Mr. West's car and found a brush mark on its fender.

In his defence Mr. West denied that he had been to Newmarket on the evening in question and stated that he had been in Bradford, shopping with his wife, from 7.45 p.m. to 11.30 p.m.

In behalf of the defendant, Gordon Marles told his worship that he had been talking to Mr. West at about 8 p.m. in Bradford on Oct. 3.

Called as witness, Mrs. West testified that she had been with her husband in Bradford on Oct. 3. She denied telling the police when they came to her home that she and her husband had been in Newmarket that night.

"I don't believe either of you, your wife or your witness," his worship told Mr. West. "It is a cooked-up story. When you're involved in an accident again, stop."

Charges of dangerous driving and leaving the scene of an accident against the defendant were dismissed.

Accepting his explanation that a lever suddenly became loose on his truck, thus causing his air brakes to lock, Magistrate Woodliffe dismissed a charge of careless driving against Percival Canning, Toronto.

According to Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson, he noticed the truck as it came over the brow of the hill on No. 11 highway at Holland Landing. He said that the driver suddenly jammed on his brakes without giving warning to another behind. Proceeding a little further along the highway he again jammed on his brakes.

Finding William F. Gartshore, Sharon, guilty of having bad brakes on his car, Magistrate Woodliffe fined him $10 and costs.

THE GOLDEN EGG THAT HATCHES

WAR SAVINGS -- BONDS

You can't have your cake and eat it too--nor can you spend your money and save it. These are times for self-denial, when unnecessary spending must be replaced by saving. Budget your living costs and financial obligations. Then determine how much you can save every pay day. Create a golden egg that will hatch into happiness; a back-log to take care of emergencies; the corner-stone of a business opportunity, and an anchor for future security.

HELEN NESBITT IS FLIER'S BRIDE

St. Paul's Anglican church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday evening of last week, when Helen Maude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Nesbitt of Newmarket, became the bride of Pilot Officer Gordon Byron Ough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ough of Newmarket. The church was decorated with roses and pampas grass. Rev. G. H. Johnson performed the ceremony. Mrs. J. O. Little was at the organ. Miss Gwen Lambert sang.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a gown of shell white crepe. Her veil was of heirloom lace and she carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses, gardenias and bouvardia. She was attended by Miss Helen Rose, as maid of honor, and her sister, Miss Joan Nesbitt, as bridesmaid. They were gowned alike in deepening shades of candlelight blue crepe and wore hats fashioned of matching material. They carried bouquets of pansies, cyclamen and shaded mums.

Pilot Officer George Nixon attended the groom as best man and the ushers were Clare Doyle, Staff-Sergeant Ernest McCaffrey and Pilot Officer Alex. Davidson.

A reception was held in the parish hall, the bride's mother receiving in a gown of twilight blue, accented with a hat in dahlia tones and a corsage. The groom's mother assisted and wore a gown of black crepe accented with gold trim and wore a corsage.

For travelling the bride chose an ensemble of forest brown over which she wore a green topcoat with velvet trim and brown accessories.

Pictured above are Pte. and Mrs. Charles P. Gordon, who were married in St. Matthew's church, Red Hill, Surrey, England, on Sept. 2. The bride is the former Betty Frances Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wells, of Red Hill, Surrey, England, and the groom is a Newmarket soldier, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gordon.

Halloween party to be held on Friday evening for the Sunday-school. It was decided each person attending should bring something to go in dirty bags for the navy.

Interesting meetings were planned for the coming season. Mrs. Norman D. Wallace was elected to be the new president.

Viola Hill Elected To Champlain Council

All roads from Toronto, Brampton, Newmarket, Lindsay, Port Perry and Oshawa led to Markham last Friday evening as far as members of the Toronto suburban region of the Champlain Council of Telephone Pioneers were concerned.

The event was the annual fall get-together of this organization, commencing with a fowl supper served by the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church and followed by an evening of entertainment and dancing at the Orange hall. It was attended by upwards of 150 of its members and their ladies.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation to Alpheus ("Dad") Hoover, father of the local telephone system, which first had its being in the old Markham and Pickering Co-operative Co., some 42 years ago, with a certificate of life membership in the organization known officially as the Telephone Pioneers of America. The presentation was made by Harold G. Young, now general manager of the Bell Company's western (Ontario) area, who, since his home was at Agincourt, attended high school at Markham.

Miss Ethel M. Davidson of Markham was also elected a life member and was the recipient of her certificate at the hands of Mr. Young.

Presentation of newly elected members, as well as of those transferred from other regions, was the pleasing task of Lieut. Col. F. S. Routley, vice-chairman of the Champlain Council, and included Miss Viola E. Hill, Newmarket, Miss Mary R. Keane and Earl Doyle, Toronto, Miss L. M. Johnson, Oshawa, Wesley Russell, Manual A. South, Harold Gubbins, Brampton, and Messrs. G. H. Fleming and J. A. Cross, residents of Oshawa, recently transferred from Hamilton and London respectively. Harry H. Black, until recently manager at Oshawa, now retired and a life member of the Council, and Mrs. Black were also among those present.

Mr. Young and Col. Routley were introduced to the gathering by the chairman of the evening, H. A. G. MacKinnon.

Among those present from Newmarket were Miss Viola Hill, her mother, Mrs. W. W. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Revell, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McDonald and Miss Ina McDonald, Miss Alberta Atkins and Mr. H. Atkins, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold McClelland.

"With building materials hard to get and people putting their money into the war effort it is to be hoped this year no damage will be done," Chief Constable Fisher Dunham told The Era and Express. "The damage has been light the past few years but this year people should not have to put up with annoyances."

As usual, special constables will be on patrol duty.

BACK YOUR TEAM

Equipment, every sport fan knows, plays an important part in the success of any team. Good equipment means more skill in most cases, certainly less injuries and to the players more satisfaction, which means they do not sulk or feel neglected. If this is true in sport, how much more is it true in the biggest game in the world—the fight to save democracy? We can have the best material and plenty of training and ability but equipment is a vital thing to the men in the field of battle on land, sea and air.

That is why we urge our readers and all sportsmen to get behind their team in this crisis and help provide them with equipment and morale. The best available means of doing this is by way of investment in the present Victory loan and in avoiding unnecessary spending. Let us remember, as we look at the past record of our team, that in a final series, such a thing is a possibility. Remember stout hearts while they have never been beaten alone will not stop the mechanized maniacs of Hitler and Hirohito. Let's give our team a 100 percent chance to pull out the game for us.

Aurorans "Meet All The Trains" On The Continent

Once again the far-famed fighter squadron of the R.C.A.F., led by Aurora's Squadron Leader, Lloyd V. Chadburn, D.F.C., has hit the headlines with a devastating attack on occupied France. Chadburn's squadron and that of Squadron Leader J. C. Fee have been strafing locomotives in an effort to knock out the Nazi transportation system.

The boys are known as "the engine busters." In slightly over a week the two squadrons have blasted and destroyed 16 locomotives between them as well as machine-gunning the crews and destroying lorries, cargo, block houses, pylons and power-lines.

Flying Officer R. J. ("Bob") Turp of Snowball is with Chadburn's squadron. So is Sgt. Douglas Seath. Turp is credited with downing two locomotives in one of the attacks. Flying Officer Bruce, adjutant of the squadron, is a former Aurora boy.

The squadron has officially come under the sponsorship of the city of Oshawa, an honor that might have been undertaken by Aurora.

Chadburn spent his early childhood in Oshawa until 1929, when his father, the late T. A. Chadburn, he and his mother, now Mrs. Frank Allen, moved to Aurora.

Officers, warrant officers and the N.C.O. school of the 2nd battalion, Queen's York Rangers, held weekend manoeuvres at Shadow Lake camp on the 9th concession of Whitechurch on Saturday and Sunday. The party numbered over 100 and arrived at the camp at 4 p.m.

Plotted and blankets issued the morning's work in preparation for the afternoon's sham battle. Dinner saw Irish stew on the menu and then the attacking and defence forces took up their posts. Capt. Richardson and Vanderploeg were in charge of the attack and Capt. Lindsay of the defence. Judges were Lieut.-Col. J. H. Bennett, V.D., the officer commanding, Major Hyde Wilkes, "G" staff of M.D. 2, and Lieut. William Hunt, the training officer.

Sgt.-Major J. Bickford, noted drill authority and a former member of the unit, was an interested observer and was quick to lend a hand.

"Never forget, despite textbooks, common sense must be applied in warfare just as you would do in private life," Major Wilkes told the men.

"The officers of this unit have done a grand job on this scheme," said Sgt.-Major Bickford. "They have had apt pupils and good assistance from the instructors and warrant officers. You are doing a fine job."

The scheme ended around 4:30 and the men returned home tired but in the pink of condition. Attending from C company were Capt. Earl Bales, Lieut. J. L. Bell and W. I. Hearst, C.S.M. T. A. M. Hulse, Sgt. Babcock, Orr, Sleight and Watts, Cpls. Ryerest, Miller, Johnson and Spence, Lieut. Bartlett, Bell, Doolittle and Shumits and Ptes. Bunn, Harrison and Meyers.

Supper consisted of roast beef, potatoes, carrots, cold slaw, jam, bread and butter and it disappeared in fast order. After supper the party adjourned to the recreation hall, where colored motion pictures of the active service battalion at camp, at church parade and other scenes were shown and a sing-song enjoyed.

Lights out sounded at 10:30 and the men appreciated the issue of three blankets each and the spring beds, and mattresses. Most found it necessary to use their great coats, with no heat on, and some slept in their uniforms. Reveille sounded at 7:30 and after a breakfast of bacon and eggs, manoeuvres started. Lessons in attack were the morning's work in preparation for the afternoon's sham battle.

HUNTERS, PHEASANTS ARE VERY CAREFUL

There were no accidents reported in Whitchurch township during last week's pheasant hunt. Clerk John Crawford told The Era and Express. Few pheasants were bagged by the hunters this year in Whitchurch, Vaughan, or Markham townships.

TOWNSFOLK INSPECT VEHICLES OF WAR

Large crowds thronged Yonge St. on Saturday afternoon to see the Victory armored column and the townsfolk got a thrill as they inspected the jeeps, Bren gun carriers, and field artillery tractor and watched 45 air force men under the command of Sgt. J. Thompson go through an intricate precision drill.

The mayor and council were seated on a platform erected in front of the post office and Mayor Frank Underhill, after welcoming the column, made an eloquent appeal for the Victory loan.

"This was but a continuation of the last," said his worship. "We must see that it is finished to its logical conclusion, which would mean continued peace for the future. You are lending your money not only for immediate preservation but for the establishment of a new world order."

The Aurora Boys' band played briefly. Lieut. Herbinson, in charge of the R.C.A.F. section, and Lieut. Bowerman of the armored corps spoke briefly.

The convoy was fed at the Anglican parish hall by the ladies of Trinity church and all expressed appreciation of the excellent meal.

"It was the best part of our trip," one soldier said. "With traffic conditions lighter than on like Saturdays of other years vehicles were routed along Mosley, Victoria and Wellington Sts. with ease."

It was the 43rd prize day of the college. Three hundred and forty-five old boys are serving in the armed forces, 140 overseas, 10 of whom have been killed, three are prisoners of war and two have been wounded.

Cheers greeted the announcement that Lieut. Commander Kenneth Ketchum, the former headmaster, had been promoted to the rank of commander and a telegram from Commander Ketchum, Esquimaux, B.C., was read.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Charlie Smith, North York's gift to the racing world, retired before the first fall meet at 'Little Saratoga' was over and will ride no more for this year, if ever again. Chances are Smith will be in the army by next spring and certainly, as is the case with many jockeys of military category, will not get permission to cross the line. Charlie, after a wonderful spring meet in which he realized his life ambition of riding a King's Plate winner, like his steed, Ten to Ace, could not strike his stride this fall. He was not in good health by Dufferin and wisely took a rest. The Ace, who now appears to be completely washed up, was ridden by Jockey Denny Birley in his last start and failed to come through even for the show spot. Race critics say Trainer and Owner Harry Giddings kill off his horses early in life by wrong handling. Be that as it may, both Smith and the Ace at one stage this year were probably the best in America.

Congratulations to Owen Johnson, former member of Aurora Tigres who a few weeks ago became a proud father for the second time. They're both boys and Owen hopes to see the two young Johnsons stand-outs on the ice.

Don Willson is working out with the Toronto R.C.A.F. senior entry and despite plenty of opposition will have no difficulty catching a regular place.

"Whitey" Warner, who started in the outfield for Case's Aces and was one of the most promising outfielders these old optics have glimpsed, is employed at the John Inglis plant in Toronto now. Paul wanted to attend Guelph O.A.C. this year but could not wangle an entry. He will not be 18 until next year.

Did you know? that Enos Slaughter, who played such a sensational world series part for the Cardinals, developed his arm pegging stones at rabbits when he was a kid. He gets his nickname "Country" from the fact that he came straight to the Cardinals camp from the North Carolina backwoods. With a first name like his, there is no doubt he should be "hubbubbing over with energy."

Jack Chipman, "the mighty atom" of St. Andrew's college rugby and hockey teams of last year, has been awarded the Macdonald medal for the college's top-ranking athlete and scholar, taking everything into consideration. "Chippy" who is enrolled in the naval academy at Esquimalt, B.C., received his honors in absentia via his young brother.

Joe Tunney, the former Aurora goalie, is at present the leading goaltending candidate for the R.C.A.F. senior team. Joe Primeau knows Tunney's real worth. For Joe was in the Aurora nets when the locals put out Primeau's highly fancied Upper Canada team two years ago. Last year he was with Pictou R.C.A.F. and has only lately been transferred to Toronto, which may or may not be a hockey move but at least shows Tunney's capabilities. Forsythe, who once played for Queen's U and has been up north too, and Joe Cleary, who was in goal with St. Michael's for two years, are also candidates.

Only trouble with the filers' team is that you can't be assured of anything, for who will blow in the next day is not known. "Legs" Fraser, the former Canadian and Maritime star, was at Toronto mauling pool all summer and was expected to be in the nets. He was sent elsewhere a few weeks ago. He played a strong game of soccer all summer and was in action against Newmarket a few weeks ago at the Camp.

The best laid plans of mice and men go haywire. In hockey, Bobby Burns, and hockey is no exception, as witness military calls received by Lorne Evans, ex-Milton goalie, and Ken Dixon of Las. year's Oakville team, both of whom were certain for Mariboros juniors, if not higher. Evans we presume, will serve the Leafs as target practice goalie until he gets his second call. Dixon and Lard, from Buffalo-Ankerite, another promising youth, enlisted at once. The hockey picture for both pro and amateur will be a never-ending change of personnel from now until the war is over. The fans want to see the games and naturally like to see their team win but it is time the moguls realized that worrying about a winner will soon be a thing of the past. Uniformity in the draft and the way over the country is something that is needed and the hockey situation has clearly shown the same yardstick is not being employed in either military or selective service. Some boards refuse to give hockey players the right to play in the States or to move from one province to another. Others seem to have the bars wide open.

If this can be true in hockey, how much more so can it be in the case of other civilians? For months we have wondered how with the draft in effect the number of men in the army from Quebec province should be so small proportionately. Perhaps the answer lies in the wide powers possessed by the draft boards. It is certainly an unsatisfactory situation so far as sport is concerned to see one province apply one rule and another a totally different rule. It is unsatisfactory to the country as a whole to know the same standard judgment is not being applied in all cases.

Freddie Gibson, brother of Jack ("Busher") Gibson, who has played most of his hockey with Toronto Native Sons, is the latest recruit to the ranks of the Maple Leafs. Freddie played with Newmarket juniors in the S.P.A. one year and in an exhibition game but just when Charlie Rowntree thought he had him "bagged" he decided to stay in Toronto. He will likely be back with the amateurs. Nowadays the amateur clubs get a slice from the pros when one of their former players turns pro. Too bad the rule wasn't in force when Newmarket had a hockey club. Thoms, Cain, Pringle, Kelly, Wilson, Molyneux, Collings and Teasdale would all have meant money in the bank.

Aurora has yet to collect but has hopes for the future. They nearly signed Bill Quackenbush to a certificate two years ago. Now Bill, known as the "golden gander," has signed with Detroit Redwings. He has an army rejection slip too. So it goes! You may pass up the dough by passing up the player or finding yourself too late on the fountain pen draw. But for the war Jimmy Lowe would have been paying dividends to Aurora right now.

Scotty Muir is still in St. Catharines and now appears likely to finish out the season with the Saints rather than join the navy. Hughie is engaged in war work in the Garden City. Naturally, he is a clinch to catch a place with the Fredericton clan and is just as popular with the fans over there as he was here.

Dudley Wilcox made a nice showing in the University of Toronto track meet. The former Aurora high senior champion finished third in the discus and second in the quarter-mile. The broad jump found him out in the cold. His second place in the quarter is a bit surprising but he was in good condition after a summer up north and has good competitive spirit. The standing broad jump, his favorite event, was not on the program. It is doubtful if many in Canada today can best Wilcox at this jump.

The discus was tossed 1207', and the quarter was run in 55.1. Both fair performances but not outstanding. A top secondary school performer would probably better the discus mark. At last, Jack Cox of Aurora, who holds the inter-school and Aurora record, did back in 1934.

Sorever continues this year at Stouffville and Markham high schools and the Markham boys have already recorded a 1-0 win over their neighbors. Agincourt and Glenora will both be met by the two schools. No signs of activity with the oval ball are seen at Aurora as yet. Stouffville high school, owing to war conditions, have forgone the annual field day this year.

John Koning of Richmond Hill, better known as "Jake the fire" a familiar figure of the days in the York-Simcoe league is an officer in the Canadian army now and is stationed at Brantford.

Morton Engineering, who eliminated Sutton Greenshirts in the eastern Canada intermediate championship last winter in the first series of its kind ever played, have moved up to the senior series this year, replacing the famous Quebec Aces in Q.A.I.A. The Morton team are practically intact and the club, which barely were good enough to beat Sutton, is figured by the experts to have a real chance in higher company. That speaks highly for the Pringle-Sibbald team of last season. The Quebec rink was burned to the ground this year and the club will find a new home in one of the winter fair buildings, made available to hockey by Premier Godbout. It will be a good investment for the politicians, too.

Bonnie Rowe, ace forward of Markham juniors, was signed to a Maple Leaf contract as was Don Webster of Mariboros juniors and Brantford from Calgary. All three will be turned over to Providence for more seasoning. In practice they have been playing together for a long time and all are young. Rowe is the first player to turn professional since the days of the Newmarket Redmen. Rowe may well be with the Leafs before it is all over.

Tommy Burlington, the one-eyed lad who played with Owen Sound Greys against Tigers a few years back, has turned pro with Cleveland Barons. Burlington was with the late Bert Corbeau at Atlantic City last year and was the top scorer of the circuit. A courageous, brainy player, Burlington, while having the ability, has been passed up by the moguls for some years because of his sight. He hails originally from Weston.

Normie Mann, former mainspring of Newmarket's drive to a dominant title, is in training with Pittsburg Hornets at Midland. Mann, once a chattel of the Toronto team, is owned outright by the Pittsburg club. He had a reunion at the Green Bay town with his old teammate, Pep Kelly, who reported for practice with the Buffalo team, who are also training at Midland. Reports from St. Catharines which we know to be accurate tell us Kelly would have received the coaching job he was after but he wanted the City Hall and Rex Elmers' radio microphone thrown in before he would act.

"Red" Dunne, who was at Newmarket Camp when it first opened and played goal for the first team, is now located at Kingston and may play some hockey there. Last year he was in the nets for the Hamilton army team.

Markham high school maintains one of the big sporting events of the year ex consuetudine and all that sort of thing. We refer to the initiation of freshmen. Time was when all high schools, prep schools and universities had such things and the event was eagerly awaited by both freshmen and old students. The sophomores wanted revenge, the juniors and seniors fun, and the freshmen wanted to show they weren't sissies but as tough a gang as ever entered any school. Very few were hurt, there were a few black eyes and torn shirts, but everybody felt emancipated when it was all over except for the pantywaists. There were some cases of a few crucifixes, but mostly unintentional and caused by the actions of the freshees generally. We well remember the paddling, water and crawling at Aurora high, and university with a real free-for-all that will never be forgotten. We learned to respect our elders the hard way and then it was our turn.

So far as we know, Markham is the only district secondary school to maintain the initiation, and most universities, including our own alma mater, have made it but a shadow of the past. The Markham boys received electric shocks from windburst machines, were smeared with lipstick and shoe polish, made to kiss the barley stone, ducked in water and paddled a bit, too. There are many arguments against initiations but the absence of such things is but an indication of the times, ping-pong in place of hockey, juke-boxes in place of baseball, croquet, etc. We well know now the need for a general toughening-up program for the whole nation. Carry on, Markham!

Camp trackmen did well in the big meet in Toronto Saturday but sure missed Larry O'Connor. Youns finished second in the century dash, Glenn second in the furlong, Olsner first in the quarter, 'Deacon' Plummer first in the half-mile, Valleres, the footballer, third in the running broad jump. The relay team finished second to the Norwegian alimen. Plummer right now is probably the best 300 yards man in Canada. The field events still lack first-rate performers, but Newmarket camp has had a wonderful year in track and field.

Happy Emms of Barrie, a native son, and last year's coach of the Ontario Knights in the American association, will spend the winter in his home town, where he is a successful business man. He is mentioned as certain to succeed Larry Molyneux as coach of the Barrie Colts. Emms, whose moniker is Leighton, played junior with Barrie and Midland, turned pro after senior service, and while playing mostly in the minors was up a couple of times with the New York Americans but failed to stick. He made a fine job of coaching at Omaha. His appointment looks like a natural and from what we hear there will be plenty of hockey in Barrie this winter.

Fritz Fraser, who will be remembered as the Angel by hockey fans of three years ago when he played hockey with Oshawa against Aurora, has joined the R.C.A.F. Fraser left Oshawa when the Generals wouldn't give him a square deal and played for Brantford last year.

Charlie Conacher, we understand, will be named to take over Oshawa juniors, left by coachess, Percy Shaw's appointment as coach of the "Toronto army team. When Shaw was suspended last year for clocking a referee, Conacher took over the post and made a fair list of things. Conacher, like Barkla, "la willing," but has not yet been given the come-on sign.

DePippo, last year with Oakville juniors, has joined the army and is counted on for the army senior entry.

George Mara, the former Upper Canada star centre who performed against both Aurora and St. Andrew's, has joined the navy and is expected to play for them this winter. Last year he was with Mariboros juniors.

Jack Culverwell, for years a star with Sutton Greenshirts, is coaching the Ontario entry in the West Toronto mercantile and will play too. "Johnnie" McMill will follow his teammate to the same squad. So will Les Vickery. Ellis Pringle is playing coach of Delfaviland in the same circuit and will have several of the Sutton team with him as well as Jim Cunningham, the former Aurora junior.

Bruce Cordick, the big Weston boy who played goal for Richmond Hill Young Canadians the year they won the Tri-County honors in hockey, is the coach of the newly formed Weston squad which will oppose the above-named teams in Ravina rink. North Yorkers, with so much local color scattered about the league, will follow the circuit this winter with interest.

"Now WE hold a Mortgage on Canada Ma!"

"Sure we're working harder than ever—but that never hurt anybody. We're working longer hours and putting our money away in Victory Bonds. Now we'll be paid interest instead of paying it.

"When peace comes we'll have money saved to buy new equipment for our farm—might even put up a new barn—maybe take a holiday!

"Meanwhile, we can't think of any safer or better place to invest our money than in bonds backed by our country. And we can't think of any better purpose than helping our fighting boys get the jump on the enemy. When we read about our lads bombing Germany, we can think that maybe we raised one of those bombs on our own farm.

"So that's our plan from now until peace comes. We will work to save and lend. We'll have it to spend later. And we can look forward to getting that new tractor and that fine new automobile we're saving for now."

"We'll be laying up for ourselves the best of all investments—VICTORY BONDS—backed by all the resources of the Dominion of Canada; they yield a fair rate of interest; we can borrow against them; and they are readily saleable when we need cash!

MOVIES ON PARADE

Irene Dunne, one of Hollywood's loveliest screen stars, returns to the field of gay comedy in Universal's "Lady in a Jam," which comes to the Strand theatre on Monday.

Produced and directed by famed Gregory La Cava, the new picture is a worthy vehicle for the talents of the glamorous lady whose comedienne abilities have delighted theatre-goers in the past in such films as "The Awful Truth," "Theodora Goes Wild" and "My Favorite Wife."

In "Lady in a Jam" Miss Dunne portrays an irresponsible New York heiress who goes broke and who then proceeds to go west, to the badlands of Arizona, to work an abandoned gold mine in a ghost town. Patric Knowles and Ralph Bellamy are Miss Dunne's leading men, and the supporting cast includes Queenie Vassar, Eugene Pallette and Samuel S. Hinds.

Only enough Dunne never believed she possessed comic talents when she was scoring hit after hit on the screen in outstanding dramatic performances such as "Show Boat," "Magnificent Obsession," "Climax," etc. Then came the role in "Theodora Goes Wild" and Irene Dunne, the dramatic star, became Hollywood's leading comedienne.

This is Miss Dunne's first comedy under the guidance of Gregory La Cava. But it is definitely not La Cava's first collaboration with Miss Dunne or comedy. He directed her in two dramatic hits, the recent "Unfinished Business" and "Symphony of Six Million," and La Cava is the man who created the memorable "My Man Godfrey."

Robert Taylor, for the first time playing a villainous role unrelieved by sentiment or sentimentality, proves himself a dramatic star of the first rank in "Johnny Eager," with Lana Turner as his co-star. This is the new picture which begins a two-day engagement at the Strand theatre on Wednesday.

Taylor has a role which is a distinct departure from anything he has ever done on the screen. He is shown as a flinty-eyed killer with but one redeeming quality, the final realization that in Lana Turner he has met the one great and exciting love of his life, a love for which he lays down his life in a hail of gangster bullets.

Miss Turner, as the defendant in a district attorney's reaches the peak of her young career as the girl who loves the gangster, and for whom he eventually performs the only decent act of his life.

Van Hefflin establishes himself among the topflight actors of the screen with his characterization of a disolute gangster attorney who has not yet entirely forgotten the beauty of ideals and the innate courage of humanity.

The dependable Edward Arnold appears as Miss Turner's father, Henry O'Neill impersonates the trusting parole officer who believes in Johnny Eager, and an excellent supporting cast includes Robert Sterling, Patricia Dane, Gladys Farrall, Diana Lewis and Barry Nelson.

POLICE COURT CHASING PIG WITH TRUCK PROVES FATAL

Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe, in Newmarket police court on Tuesday, adjourned three cases in order that further evidence might be obtained.

At the request of the defendant, his worship adjourned the case of James Kilpatrick, Holland Landing, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of killing on Oct. 14 a pig belonging to Marius Neilson, also of Holland Landing.

According to Mr. Neilson, when questioned by N. L. Matthews, K.C., crown prosecutor, on Oct. 15, as a result of information received, he went to the field owned by the defendant's father, a neighbor, where he found his sow lying dead and deep track marks in the earth leading to its body. He stated that he expected the sow to farrow in six weeks and valued her at $150.

"I was threshing the day before and someone must have run my pigs out," the witness went on to say. "I found them all but her. I looked every place for her. That evening I heard a truck roaring down the Kilpatrick field and I heard a squeal. Just before the pig was hit I heard somebody in the truck yell, 'Let her have it.' Mr. Neilson further informed his worship that previously one of his pigs had gotten into the Kilpatrick field and eaten mash from the chicken troughs and that he had paid the Kilpatricks for the mash. County Constable Ronald Watt stated that he had examined the pig and found it to be badly bruised on the nose and stomach. "There were several marks in the field, indicating that the car had come down in a very zigzag manner," stated the officer. "The came to a stop where the sow was lying dead."

Constable Watt went on to say that when he questioned the defendant, the latter told him that he was returning home the evening of Oct. 14, with two other boys in his truck, when his mother met him at the gate and asked him to chase the pig with the lights of the truck. He had not intended to hit the animal, only chase it off the property.

Mr. Kilpatrick, who said that he was 20 years of age, told his worship that while he was chasing the sow a bag fell off the truck and one of the boys got out of the truck to get it. When he climbed back on the rear of the truck, he yelled, 'Let her have it,' meaning to start up the truck again. He said that he did not mean to hit the animal and at the time did not believe that she was seriously

STUDIES IN ARIZONA

Randolph Holmes, M.A., of Maple, a former student at Aurora high school, is again enrolled at the University of Arizona at Tucson, Ariz., where he is taking his Ph.D. in geology.

In her son's behalf Mrs. Agnes Kilpatrick told Magistrate Woodliffe that she had asked her son to chase the animal with the lights of his truck, as it was eating from her chicken troughs.

"It was a big animal," she stated. "I was afraid of it."

Mr. Kilpatrick said he would produce another witness next week.

A charge against Ralph Havinga, King township, of dangerous driving in Holland Landing park on Oct. 18, was adjourned at the request of the defendant. Constable Watt told his worship that, as a result of a complaint, he went to the Holland Landing park, where some six cars were congregated in one place. He stated that the car driven by Mr. Havinga had been in collision with that of Clifford Linstead of Sharon, causing considerable damage to the latter car.

The officer stated that the boys were accustomed to congregate in the park, and push each other's cars about with their own. He said that he had received complaints previously about the disturbance caused.

The third case adjourned for further evidence was at the request of the crown. It was that of Mrs. Teresa Kulonoff, Newmarket, who pleaded guilty to taking a clock, valued at $25.00, from a shelf of "Five" jewelry store in Newmarket on Oct. 17.

Chief Constable James Sloss told his worship that on Oct. 26 he had searched the defendant's home, where he found the clock, which the defendant admitted that she had taken from the jewelry shop shelf and put in her purse.

Magistrate Woodliffe remanded Mrs. Kulonoff for one week on her own property bail of $100.

Finding him guilty of having liquor not purchased on his own individual permit, Magistrate Woodliffe fined E. C. Mingay, Aurora, $100 and costs or three months in jail.

According to Chief Constable George Stuart of the York county police, as the result of a complaint received, he went on Oct. 4 to the home of the defendant in Aurora where he was admitted by Mr. Mingay. The latter admitted that he had purchased 24 pints of beer through a neighbor without giving him a written order of purchase as required by law. "The officer stated that he had questioned the neighbor, Rolo Thompson, who told him that he did not know that he had broken the law."

Mr. Mingay told his worship that he had asked Mr. Thompson, who was going to Toronto, to purchase the beer for him but did not know that he was breaking the law. His worship ordered confiscation of the 22 pints of beer which the police seized.

Because he did not have flares on his truck as required by law, Theodore King, R. R. 1, Mount Albert, was fined $5 and costs or five days. Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson testified that he had stopped the King truck north of Aurora.

For driving his motorcycle at 50 miles an hour on Yonge St. between Holland Landing and Eagle St., Norman Bunker, Camp Borden, was fined $10 and costs or ten days. Constable Ferguson timed Mr. Bunker.

SALVATION ARMY BEGINS 'BETTER WORLD' CAMPAIGN

A "Toward a Better World" campaign is being launched by the Salvation Army.

At a special soldiers' meeting on Tuesday evening, Capt. F. W. Brightwell announced that across Canada, Newfoundland, Alaska and Bermuda an intensive spiritual campaign would take place during the months of November and February.

A letter from Commissioner B. Oram, head of the Salvation Army in Canada, was read. A passage from Ezekiel 2: 1-10, showing that even in those days men were starving for the help of God to bring the people toward a better world, was read.

"There are many people who need spiritual illumination," said Capt. Brightwell. "The only way we can help people socially, economically, physically, mentally and spiritually toward a better world is to introduce them to Christ. The responsibility of leading men and women to Christ belongs not only to ministers but to every Christian."

"Our campaign in Newmarket will commence on Sunday. Let us do our utmost, not only during the months designated to us, but all the days of our lives."

OFFICERS' RALLY

By Isabel Inglis Colville

Have you ever thought of what our days stand for? There are the days when everything seems drab and uninteresting, when nothing we do seems to have point or meaning, and when we feel that the world could probably—nay surely—get along as well, if not better, without us.

Those days stand for loss—for opportunities lost when we might have done some kindly act or written some kindly word, but we were too wrapped up in our own fancied gloom to see them. Days when we couldn't see the sky or hear the birds sing because we were enveloped in a cloud of pessimism. But, on the other hand, there are days when we truly feel we are the captains of our souls and can fare forth to do battle with and conquer our particular dragons, and when we seem attuned to everything lovely in nature.

On Tuesday, Oct. 6, we bade our homes goodbye to rally forth to Aurora and the Officers' Rally.

The morning was somewhat grim when Huldah took us along the way, between trees just touched with crimson and gold, and deposited us at the Anglican parish hall. When we entered and I saw that Mrs. Hayes was to be our speaker, my spirit soared, for she's full of wit and wisdom and one invariably comes away richer from contact with her.

It seems a pity that more do not attend these rallies—they are not for officers only—anyone may go—and benefit.

The meeting opened with the opening ode and O Canada, following which Mrs. Sinclair, our district president, said a few words of introduction and Mrs. Hayes took possession of the floor—and her hearers.

Mrs. Hayes said she did not come to lecture, but to suggest and discuss program planning and group discussion—it was to be OUR meeting. She said programs should not be planned by the hit and miss method, we have no time now to waste attending meetings which have no value. Programs should be planned right after the district annual, for then you know what has been planned at it, also we have received inspiration and information from other branches.

She also stressed that the program planning committee for each branch should be carefully selected, those being chosen who could contribute best.

Institute work, said she, is three-sided—practical, social and recreational. Our task is to strike a balance between three lines of activity and to carry out the main object of Institute work: (a) better homes; (b) healthier, more efficient people;

(c) better communities; (d) a happier and more wholesome social life; (e) a more scientific agricultural life; (f) development of leaders.

How can the Institute meetings and programs help to attain these much-desired ideals? And here Mrs. Hayes asked for ideas.

One should be more cheerful after a meeting, said one, morale of whole household raised, suggested another, by stimulating program.

Exchange of ideas for home improvement, for health, for better nutrition, charitable impulses helped, thoughtfulness for others emphasized.

We should guard our health, we homemakers, for efficiency in the home and elsewhere is based on good health—mental and physical.

Mrs. Aitken, said Mrs. Hayes, is an example of health and efficiency.

Now that there is a shortage of doctors we should guard our health with redoubled vigilance, and it is a strange and a sad thing that with Canada's abundance of excellent foodstuffs yet there is malnutrition, so it's up to us to make the right food so attractive that in spite of likes and dislikes it will be eaten.

A community cannot rise above the level of its homes, therefore it's up to us to have real homes. Social life is needed now more than ever and the boys and girls left at home should be given every consideration: there should be something constructive for them—first aid classes, singing, anything that will create a more co-operative and better community. Peace begins in the home, we cannot expect peace among nations till it has achieved perfection in the home.

Mrs. Hayes advised lunch at meetings, but minus tea, coffee, sugar and sweet things. Saccharine not advised as substitute sweetener.

Scientific agriculture should be encouraged and a brief bulletin on agriculture should be read at each meeting. Encourage the use of good seed and the killing of weeds.

Leaders are made through a sense of individual responsibility. Lack of that sense is a detriment to democracy. A passively good citizen—one who keeps the laws fairly well, and is content to take no responsibility AS a citizen is not good enough—one must be actively good—only so can we expect to keep our present way of life. This article will be continued next week.

The Cherokee club will hold its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Alex. Eves, 8 Main St., on Friday evening, Nov. 6, at 8 o'clock.
